EUROPE UNREST

Existing Alliances Near to Breaking Under Strain.

TURKEY A TROUBLE CAUSE

Signs That German Influence Is at Last on Wane.

OPPORTUNITY FOR ENGLAND

May Prevail Upon Porte to Join the Triple Entente—Germany Failed in the Crisis.

Special Telegram to The Star.
BERLIN, November 11.—For years the general international situation has not been as unsettled as at present. Everywhere one turns there is unrest and strife. Europe is laboring under a severe strain, existing alliances are near the breaking point and a new grouping of the powers may be announced at any time.
The political center of interest at present is undoubtedly Constantinople. Turkey is passing through an exceedingly dangerous crisis which may end in complete anarchy or in Turkey joining one of the two great international European combinations, the triple alliance or the triple entente. If Germany loses the confidence of Turkey she will have only herself to blame, for no other power has had her chance with the sick man.

Germany Became Paramount.

During the last years of the reign of the deposed Sultan Abdul Hamid, German influence gradually became paramount at Constantinople. Practically thrown over by England, the sultan, in his dread of Russia's increasing influence, turned to Germany for protection.
German officers were sent to train his army, which they succeeded in placing on an efficient footing, and German capital and enterprise contributed to the improvement of regions which had been sadly neglected.
Such was the state of affairs when the first revolution broke out in Turkey.
Germany was not slow to take advantage of the situation. The sultan was endowed with the constitution which had been so long promised and so long deferred. This transformation was hailed with infinite satisfaction by the liberal powers of the west, who looked forward to a fresh and happy era, and also expected that under the new regime the Ottoman empire would naturally gravitate to their orbit. All these fond hopes were disappointed by the policy pursued by the new government, which not only failed to ameliorate the domestic situation, but remained constant in its attitude of aloofness toward the west.
After the abortive counter-revolution, as to the precise origin of which very strange and apparently fully justified speculation is entertained here, the enforced abdication of Abdul Hamid, things went on as before, as regards the methods employed at home and Turkey's relations with the foreign powers. The explanation is that, like the deposed sultan, the anonymous Sultanic committee was endowed with the same German influence.
Some of its members are alleged to have very solid reason for their support of that power, and they have also been taken that its praises shall be sung by a portion of the local press.

Helps German Trade.

All this is to the advantage not only of the German government, but also of German trade and industry, and so strong is the notorious committee of union and progress, which has a substantial majority in the reichstag, that no ministry can act in opposition to its wishes.
Assuredly, too, that most of the officers of high rank in the Turkish army also entertain strong German sympathies as a result of the training which they have undergone, and indeed, that the army at large is filled with admiration of German power.

On the other hand, there is no doubt that German statesmen have committed a very serious mistake by neglecting to take any effective steps to counteract Turkey's rash declaration of war over Tripoli. Germany might have prevented this if she had wanted to, and if her government had allowed her to do so, she would have been able to get hold of a strip of territory in the Arabian desert which would cost the already overburdened German taxpayers millions and millions of marks before it began to show any benefits to the empire.

London Not Advised.

To make matters worse from a German point of view, the fact has leaked out that while the sultan government at an early date announced its plans to return to Tripoli to Berlin and Vienna, it said absolutely nothing about them at London and Paris, and thus there is nothing to keep the Turks from believing that if their old friend England should suddenly change its attitude, they might have prevented Italy from declaring war.

JOIN IN PROTECTING FORESTS.

Federal Government and States Unite in Guarding Against Fires.
The end of the present calendar year will mark the close of the first season of experimental work in co-operative fire protection between the federal government and the state of Maryland. The government, under the Weeks bill for the purchase of the Appalachian forest reserve, is authorized also to enter into agreements with the several states to send an amount similar to the amount the state appropriates for forest fire protection.
Arrangements of this sort have been entered into with ten states besides Maryland. They are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, New York, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Oregon. The states have to submit maps of the forest area to be protected and a scheme of patrolling the district. The Weeks bill allows $200,000 for this service the first year, but the Secretary of Agriculture decided that he would limit the expenditure to $100,000 for any one state. The amount spent in Maryland was only $100 but is believed that with the other states that are entering into the agreement this means the beginnings of a regular and effective fire patrol system for the whole country.

CHARTERS FOR NAVY COAL.

Six Foreign Vessels and Only One American Bid.
Six foreign steamers and one American, the only one offered, have been chartered by the Navy Department for the purpose of transporting coal from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast for the use of the navy. The rates for the one American are considerably higher than those asked for the foreign.
The foreign vessels the bids called for a rate of $2.44 a ton, while the American bid was $3. The law provides that the coal must be shipped in American boats unless the rate be excessive, and it has been decided that where the American rate is so much higher than the other foreign rate it should be considered excessive.
The foreign steamers engaged are the Strathgyle, Strathleven, Strathgyle, Strathgyle, Strathgyle and Strathgyle, and the American vessel is the steamer J. L. Luckenbach.

RUSSIA RESENTS CHARGE.

Following this the Novoe Vremya enters an indignant protest against the insinnuations of the German press that Russia, together with Japan, has been instrumental in bringing about the present situation in China. Russia, which only Delays Moroccan Debate.

In Germany itself the imperial chancellor, Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, has succeeded in inducing the reichstag to postpone all interpellations on its foreign policy, as the answers might reveal too much of his plan to other powers, but he has had to promise that the reichstag shall be given ample opportunity for discussing his Moroccan policy before the coming elections.
For the time being a majority of the reichstag acquiesces in the postponement as a reasonable prudent measure at a time when delicate negotiations are in progress, and whether they remain obediently passive as time goes by and the

COST OF AUDIENCE

Money Spent for Novel Purpose in Arizona Campaign.

Henry F. Ashurst Pays $40 to Keep Hearers From Running Away.

"Keeping the audience from running away while I spoke at Phoenix, $40." That is the most novel and unique campaign expenditure to which candidates for the United States Senate have confessed since the effectiveness of the new law passed at the last session of Congress requiring the publication of campaign expenses before both primaries and elections. It is one of the items among the debits in the statement of Henry F. Ashurst, democratic candidate from the new state of Arizona. It appears that the money was paid to J. M. Short for the services of a band at an Ashurst boom meeting.

Candidates File Expenses.

E. B. Simanton, socialist, admits, in his statement filed with the secretary of the Senate, to paying out the total sum of $222 in honor of his candidacy being the Arizona electorate. Of this total, $2 went to the socialist campaign fund; 50 cents was paid to the notary before whom the certificate of expenses was sworn, and 2 cents was paid for the postage stamp necessary to send the statement through the mails to the Capitol.
